STATE FARM POPULATION DECREASING

DAILY AVERAGE OF ONLY 305 PRISONERS DURING 1919, WHICH IS THE LOWEST OF ANY YEAR IN THE HISTORY OF THE INSTITUTION—THE 1917 AVERAGE WAS 670

CLASS OF POPULATION CHANGES

An interesting fact shown in the annual report of C. E. Talkington, superintendent of the Indiana State Farm at Putnamville, is that the population at the farm, during the year 1919, was the smallest of any year since the opening of the institution.

(The average population for the four years the institution has been receiving prisoners is as follows:

Year	Av. Pop.
1915	633
1916	633
1917	670
1918	403
1919	305

In commenting on the number of prisoners at the farm the superintendent says:

"A number of causes have contributed to the decrease in our population, the most important of which are as follows: The law forbidding the sale of intoxicating liquor, the selective draft law and the unusual demand for labor. There has also been a great change in the character and moral of the population. The skilled mechanics which were committed to us in former years for drunkenness and misdemeanor caused by drunkenness are not found in our population today. While no scientific test has been made the employed force in daily contact with the inmates is confident that we have at the present time a lower grade of mentality than we had when the state was wet.

"The health of the inmates during the time covered by this report has been remarkable. Of the 1,377 men committed there have been but two deaths and in the case of each of these the man lived but a short time after arrival, death being due to causes contracted before his arrival at the state farm. In the month of December we had the epidemic of influenza. There were eighty-seven cases of influenza and a total of twenty-three cases of pneumonia throughout the year including those with influenza. It is impossible to state all of the conditions that account for the good health of the inmates, but the open air dormitories, flooded by sunshine, the regular work and the simple, nutritious foods are undoubtedly some of the causes.

"On account of the great demand for labor and because we were anxious to do our bit during the war we continued to furnish labor to farmers within reach of us for saving crops, and to various coal companies for the purpose of doing work preliminary to the opening of coal mines."

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Iona Grace Piper, age 27, of Greencastle and Harry W. Wissel, age 30, Greencastle.
Flonnia Jackson, age 22, of Russellville and Hattie Bowles, age 21, of Waveland, Indiana.

WHY, IT'S ONLY A COLD

If you didn't read the papers
And you weren't ever told
That you had the influenza,
Then you'd simply have a cold.

DEPAUW NEWS

A vocational week in connection with the annual vocational conference will be instituted at DePauw March 15 to 19. The vocational conference will be held March 11 and 12. In formation concerning the vocations open to women and the salaries and opportunities in the different branches of preferred service will be presented to the co-eds of DePauw by the Intelligence Bureau.

Many students of DePauw are taking vital interest and some are playing an active part in the preparation for the tabernacle revival which is to be held here from March 14 to April 18. The members of the Christian Workers' Training Corps have been appointed to assist in the house to house canvass which is to be conducted previous to the revival.

The "open rush" for sororities has been adopted by the Pan-Hellenic of DePauw and the new system has received the sanction of Dean Katherine S. Alvord. Dean Alvord opposed the system when it was first presented to her for sanction but a compromise has been effected.

The DePauw basketball team will meet the Wabasha basket tossers tonight at 7:30 in the Bowman gymnasium in spite of the loss of Moffett and Curtis through ineligibility. Coach Buss and the members of the Tiger basket ball squad are very optimistic over the probable outcome of the clash "D" sweaters and caps will be awarded to the members of the 1919 foot ball squad of DePauw between the halves of the game. This is the first year that caps have been awarded to men who tried out during the entire season for the varsity squad. The probable lineup for the game is Capt. Cannon and Carlisle, forwards; Miller, center, and Mendenhall and Gipson, guards. Miller is back in his old form of last year, according to reports and he and Cannon are prepared to show some of the team work presented by them in last year's contests.

George R. Myrick of Terre Haute was in this city today on business.

MISS GRACE PIPER AND HARRY WISSEL MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Grace Piper and Harry Wissel occurred Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Father Walsh.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Piper of this city. Mrs. Wissel is a young lady of the most charming personality and high ideals. She has been chief operator at the telephone office for the past few years. The groom is the chief clerk at the State Farm. He is a man well-liked by all who knew him.

Immediately following the wedding the young couple went to the home of Mrs. Ralph Crawley, sister of the bride, where dinner was served. Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wissel, Mr. and Mrs. John Piper, Miss Irene Huestis, Miss Ethel Schachtel, Fred Wissel, of Muncie, brother of the groom; George Sage, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Crawley and Helen and Harold Crawley.

LEFT WHEN OCEAN RETIRED

California Reports Finding Millions of Shells Far Above the Present Sea Level.

Orville I. Kennedy, an attorney of San Bernardino, Cal., has returned from an exploration trip on Painted Hill, which is 49 miles east of San Bernardino. He brought with him samples of seashells from the great bed of a one-time ocean that is older than Mount San Jacinto and a story of seeing an old Spanish musket and Indian water vessels in an inaccessible place on the hill.

Kennedy plans to organize a party to return and get the musket, which, he believes, is at least one hundred years old. To obtain the relic somebody will have to be lowered from a cliff on a rope and then swung into what probably is an old sea cavern.

Some of the shells, he said, were found 2,650 feet above sea level. He stated there probably were millions embedded in the rock formation.

A Sure Cure.

"I sometimes grow weary of the rush and roar of the city," admitted Mordecai Monroe, "the soulless money grabbing, the hurrying, selfish, indifferent crowds, the brick and mortar and asphalt, and long to turn my back on it all and dwell in the peaceful, friendly country. And when I can endure it no longer I go for a couple of days down to dear old Waycross, where everybody is interested in everybody else's business, and the peace is so abundant and the quiet so plentiful that a dog fight with three participants in it is a sufficient topic for 24 hours of animated conversation. And straightway I become reconciled to my lot, and hit the high places back toward the Big Burg."—Kansas City Star.

120-DAY SCHOOL TERM REQUIRED

STATE SUPERINTENDENT FLAYS TRUSTEES WHO CUT SESSIONS IN DEFIANCE OF LAW

INDIANA STATE CAPITAL, Feb. 11.—The practice of certain township trustees of failing to keep their schools in session 120 days, the legal minimum school term for Indiana, is declared to be "unfair to the children affected thereby," contrary to the best public thought and practice, and "in violation of a specific mandate of the state," in a letter sent to school officials of the state today by L. N. Hines, state superintendent of public instruction.

Mr. Hines has received word that some trustees have already closed their schools short of the minimum term and that other trustees "contemplate closing their schools short of 120 days as a result of small school tax levies made in the fall of 1919."

SEVEN THOUSAND HOGS. HEAVY KINDS LOWER

Receipts—Hogs, 7,000; cattle, 1,100; calves, 400; sheep and lambs 200. In addition to the fresh receipts to hogs, there were 1,500 in the pens, layovers on Wednesday. Grades that sold at $15.75 to $16.50 were steady; those at $14.50 to $15.50, 25 to 50 cents lower. Pigs sold at $16 down. Local packers bought 5,000; considers 3,000.

Cattle, calves and sheep held steady.

Miss Lola Jones, who has been employed in the Central National Bank for the past several years, has resigned and will accept a position with the Fletcher National Bank in Indianapolis.

Another fire caused by burning soot falling on the roof was at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Ellis flat on the corner of Locust and Anderson street. Despite the fact that the fire truck was out preparing to blow out a sewer line, a quick response was made and the fire was extinguished with the use of the chemical hose before any great damage was done.

D. Oro Moffett, of the Evans, Moffett & Dobbs Service Station firm, was in Indianapolis on Wednesday to attend a convention and banquet given by the Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery Company, for its Indiana representatives. The event was a grand success a most enjoyable and instructive meeting being held. The Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery, although new to Indiana motorists, promises to be a popular one with the auto owners.

MAKING OCEAN TRAVEL SAFER

Device That Is Expected Greatly to Lessen the Danger and Annoyances of Fogs.

It is hoped by the United States navy and shipping interests generally that a device recently invented will prove successful in overcoming the annoyances and delays caused by fogs. The navy department recently signed a contract with Earl C. Hanson of Los Angeles for the use of his contrivance, and practical tests will be made at once at the New London naval base and later with some of the largest liners in the world in the Ambrose channel of New York harbor.

The Hanson device is a simple one. A cable is laid in the center of the ship channel. Through it is sent an electric current of low frequency, which, through the "listening" instrument on board ships, gives off a sound of certain pitch which cannot be mistaken for any other sound.

The ship hugs the cable from harbor line to the dock. On the bridge and in the captain's cabin listening devices like telephone receivers are placed and attached by wires to the hull of the ship. The ship follows the course of the cable.

Any variation away from the cable is indicated by visible indicators, which show in feet the distance away from the cable, and the ship is then put back over the cable by the rudder, in the usual way. By the ear receivers the indicators may be confirmed at all times. Vessels going into port will use one cable; those coming out another. The sound of each is different and there can be no confusion, and, therefore, no collision.

Along the cable, at mile intervals, a section is insulated with lead. Through this no sound can come, and, therefore, the man on listening duty can tell instantly how far the ship has progressed and by the cable chart in front of him can tell where the cable turns and how the ship must be steered to follow the curving of the cable and the center of the channel.—Salt Lake Tribune.

FINALLY SEVERED RED TAPE

But Messenger Had to Declare Himself Emphatically Before He Got That Ice Book.

The quartermaster's department had conferred upon me authority to buy for the sum of $5 an ice book good for 2,000 pounds of ice and had sent me to this building headed up "Commissionary" for the goods. The first clerk I saw did not question my good intentions or my legal and military right to buy that ice book somewhere in the building, but was doubtful of his authority to sell it to me. He lacked self-confidence.

He said: "Go to the other end of the building."

And he said: "Go to the other side of the building."

And he said: "Go to the other end of the building."

And I said: "D— it. I've been to three ends and five sides of this building and I go no further. If you've got an ice book—and I have reasons for believing you have—I ask you as man to man to give it to me."

He said: "Sir, it is yours."—Bookman.

HINES FAILS TO STRIKE BARGAIN WITH WORKERS

APPEAL TO PRESIDENT MADE AT UNION'S REQUEST, AFTER DIRECTOR GENERAL ANNOUNCES AGREEMENT HOPELESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Failing to reach an agreement with the representatives of the more than 2,000,000 railroad employees of demands for increased wages, Director General Hines tonight submitted the whole case to President Wilson for decision.

The appeal to the President was taken at the request of the union leaders after they had conferred with Mr. Hines for two hours late today, after he had informed them there was no hope of an agreement under present conditions. Mr. Hines sent to the White House the statements of the unions together with his own representations in the controversy.

The president thus is called on to determine whether the government will grant the increased wages or transfer the wage demand controversy to the corporations soon to regain control of the properties.

TO RESTORE THE HOLY LAND

Zionist Organization of America is Proceeding Along Comprehensive, Far-Reaching Plans.

The Zionist organization of America will prepare the Holy land in every way for immigration of Jews from Russia, Poland, Galicia, Rumania and "other pogrom ridden countries," it announced. Large tracts of land in Palestine will be bought, and the plans provide for conservation and development of water power, inauguration of sanitation and drainage in cities and towns, irrigation, a forest station, survey and development of natural resources, and establishment of technical laboratories for agricultural purposes.

Based on its project on its confidence that Great Britain will assume a mandate over Palestine for the specific purpose of establishing there a homeland for the Jewish people, the Zionist organization has gone into comprehensive detail in its Holy land arrangements. It stated: These provide for a school system from kindergarten to a university, financial loans to agricultural and industrial organizations, rehabilitation of devastated Jewish colonies, maintenance of hospitals and prisons, training schools, an anti-semitic campaign and improvement of housing conditions in Jerusalem, Jaffa and other cities.

College Avenue Prayer Meeting this evening will be held very promptly at 7 o'clock. Please note the hour.

Wisconsin Indians Worship Idol in University Museum: Annual Offerings Are Made

Even though Christianity has been adopted among the majority of the Indians of Wisconsin for years, the "gods of their fathers" are still revered, according to Dr. R. R. Rieder of the University of Wisconsin.

Doctor Rieder relates that members of the tribe of Chippewas visit the university museum every year to lay before a grotesque stone figure their offerings of skins, meat, and other food in the manner of their ancestors, who placed such idols by offerings yearly.

Doctor Rieder told how a millionaire of Chicago, whose summer home is in Wisconsin, found the idol while hunting several years ago. He took it to Chicago as a curio and later was visited by a delegation of Indians, who demanded the return of the stone figure to Wisconsin.

The flustered, and after several attempts had been made to steal the image, he became afraid and secretly sold the stone to the museum.

Emissaries of the Chippewas, it is said, watched the image until it was placed in the museum, where they declared that they were satisfied to have it remain, as long as it was in the hands of the state and on Wisconsin soil.

Doctor Rieder says the Pueblo type of Indian believed that before creation the earth was a ball of fire; the Indians of Lower California and those of Wisconsin and the Mississippi valley had the belief that it was a mass of water. The latter theory, he asserts, followed closely the latest theories of scientists regarding the period before the origin of the earth.

Doctor Rieder declares the popular conception gathered by the public from Longfellow's poem and books of the "Wild West" type were false and did injustice to the Indian.

To Journey Hopefully Is Better Than to Arrive— True Success Is to Labor

Mottoes for business men now adorn many commercial sanctums, notes a writer in the London Chronicle. The commonest and most objectionable is "Do It Now," in shrieking red letters. There are the usual references to time being convertible into cash and facetious rules for the conduct of callers.

But a Scottish head of a great business raises his eyes from his desk to see before him Napoleon's exclamation: "Good God! How rare are men!" Another note is struck by the founder of one of London's mammoth stores, for his inspiration lies in the dictum of Robert Louis Stevenson: "To journey hopefully is better than to arrive, and the true success is to labor."

Injunction Had Origin in Roman Law Where It Took the Form of an Interdict

The writ of Injunction is popularly supposed to be a modern innovation of the law, principally by reason of the extension of its scope in recent years to cases arising out of labor disputes.

But as early as 1382, the commons of England appealed to the sovereign for protection against the barons who were overriding the processes of the common law courts and the result was that these courts were placed under the protection of the chancellor, "the keeper of the king's conscience," who was empowered to issue certain writs designed to prevent the abuse of legal procedure in the lower courts. The principle, however, of injunction dates still further back—it had its real origin in the Roman law, where it took the form of an interdict.

No Month of Season Is Without Natural Beauties

Every month and every season has its secret beauties which it calls upon us to find. Perhaps a tree is at its best when, in the full tide of midsummer, it stands bravely beneath a rejoicing sun decked with shining leaves, yet it is only when winter has trodden on the land that the secret beauty of its branches is revealed. There are few things in their essence fairer than the rhythm of tree branches. There is a great ash tree which stands on the edge of a meadow; it has turned away from the north wind that sweeps down from the hills; the lines of the branches and the twigs blend marvelously into a mysterious unity that is almost music. When the great winter stars rise behind it, and sparkle in its branches, summer lies forgotten and unmourned.

Carlisle Makes Clear What Menial Calling Really Is

Men talk about menial callings; but what is a menial calling? I will tell you. It is a calling that makes a man mean. And the moment any calling makes a man a man, he has dignified and glorified it. Show me the chrysalis first, and what a prejudice I have against the butterfly! But show me the butterfly first, and after I have seen that, how beautiful the skin looks out of which it was hatched! I carry the beauty of the thing itself back to that from which it came, and by association dignify it. And I honor a man that has built himself up in vocations where no one suspected such a thing; that has dug up treasures where none but such an ingenious, industrious and patient man could have done it.—Carlisle.

WOOD VERY LIKE MAHOGANY

Carlinia Can Be Used to Advantage in the Absence of the More Valuable Lumber.

It is interesting to note that more than twenty mahoganylike woods are now offered as true mahogany, not to mention a considerable number of woods cunningly stained to imitate mahogany. In the present circumstances, therefore, when the demand for mahogany is greater than the supply, unusual interest attaches to such woods as Carlinia or Colombian mahogany, which is acknowledged not to be mahogany, but which is so similar to it in color, grain effects and working qualities as to serve for the rare wood.

The statement is made that while Carlinia differs widely in its botanical and anatomical characters from true mahogany, its close superficial resemblance to mahogany and its physical properties at once distinguish it as a high-class cabinet wood. When properly seasoned it does not warp, check or shrink, while much of the lumber is beautifully figured. It works well, takes a filler readily and can be highly polished.

George Washington's Cane.

To President Wilson was lent the other day the historic gold-headed cane which was carried by George Washington while in the White House, and President Wilson made use of it in his strolls while he was recuperating. The famous walking stick, which is considerably longer than the modern kind, was taken to the White House by Col. Edward W. Creedy of Howard county, Maryland, who said that the cane had been out of his safe deposit vault in Baltimore only three times in 40 years. It was exhibited at the Jamestown exposition, was carried by the prince of Wales on the occasion of his visit to the White House and recently was shown to Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the army.

One of the Old Birds.

One of the "old birds" who spends most of his time among the girls of the younger set was invited to a masquerade ball. The first time I saw him on the floor I guided my partner in his direction.

To our delight we came up just in time to hear him implore the little shepherdess to come sit in the corner, unmask, and talk with him. She skillfully led him on, then suddenly ran laughing away. My partner was giggling so extravagantly that I pressed her for the reason.

"First time I ever heard of a girl vamping her own dad!" was the answer.—Exchange.

PRESENT RACE MERE PIGMIES

That is, if One Believes Stories of the Giants of the Days
Gone By.

The huge giant whose fossilized remains have just been dug up in the state of Vera Cruz strikes a severe blow at those who boast of physical development in the twentieth century. This giant is claimed to be 11 yards high!

Loushkin, the Russian giant, was well under nine feet, or three yards. The Biblical giant Goliath, was merely a dozen feet, and the great King Og of Bashan did not stand more than 16 feet 6 inches in his socks. Og held the record before this 11-yard champion came along to upset him.

Put him in the kitchen of a modest four-floored house and his legs would reach the dining room above, his chest would thrust up into the bedroom and his head come out in the attic!

The average height of the measly specimen of humanity who inhabit the globe today is about 5½ feet. How we are diminishing!—London Answers.

WHAT OCCUPIED HIS MIND

Senator Twobble's Meditations Just at That Time Were Very Much on Things Mundane.

Senator Twobble appeared in deep thought. His lips were puckered and wrinkles creased his brow.

After standing at some distance and watching him a while in awe, two of the senator's constituents fell to talking about him.

"There's no telling what mighty problem he's meditating on," said the first.

"No," said the second, "but just out of curiosity, let's ask him."

Diffidently they approached the statesman, hats in hand, and the first constituent said: "Senator, we were just wondering what was on your mind. Would you object to telling us?"

"Not at all, gentlemen," replied the senator. "I was just thinking that if that confounded corn of mine didn't quit hurting soon I'd have to see a chiropodist."—Birmingham Age Herald.

Protecting the Aged.

A Columbus business woman, who is by no means youthful, but who heretofore has regarded herself as anything but decrepit, received a severe jolt recently. She was on her way to work, carefully picking her steps through several inches of slush and snow. Two small boys were standing at a corner, giving loving flustering pats to two large, juicy snowballs. Their chattering ceased as the woman approached, and a significant silence reigned as she passed. Evidently a question was asked, for through the wintry air came an answer, sharp and shrill: "Naw, you don't want to throw no snowballs at an old lady."—Indianapolis News.

Mother in Every House.

Annette, five years old, had never played with the children of the neighborhood and when the nurse permitted her to join in the fun Annette became dictatorial. She remonstrated with her playmates for all manner of imaginary offenses, assuming the role of mother. Finally the nurse gave the young lady a lecture for presuming to be so "bossy."

Just when the lecture was at its height a door opened and a real mother appeared. She proceeded to correct her child for some small offense. This attracted Annette's attention and she turned to the nurse and said:

"Isn't it funny? Just about every house you see has a mother in it."

All Going Smoothly.

The chaplain came plodding along the road coming back from the front lines several hours after the infantry had gone over the top.

"How are things going up there?" inquired an artillery lieutenant.

"Fine, fine," said the chaplain.

"We're knocking them for a goal."

"Haven't seen many prisoners," said the lieutenant skeptically.

"No, I guess you won't," replied the chaplain, "our machine guns haven't jammed all morning."—The Home Sector.

Wasn't Going Too Far.

James was much interested in a mule colt on his uncle's farm. He fed it out of his hand while standing on the opposite side of the fence and one day his uncle saw him patting its nose.

"Why?" said his uncle. "Jinny and you are getting to be good friends. First thing I know you will be trying to ride her."

"Oh, no, I won't," said James soberly. "You see, I'm only being friends with her head."

In No Great Hurry.

Winkley gazed at the new triplets with fatherly pride, but not a little apprehension in his eye, nevertheless.

"What are you thinking, dear?" asked Mrs. Winkley softly.

"Nothing, dear, nothing," he said, falteringly; "only don't you think that it would be wiser for us hereafter to build up our little family on the installment plan?"—Stray Stories.

A Mouthful.

The intense Miss Miggs—Do you not think that the communists, by the doctrine of syndicalism and mass action, shall ultimately develop an insurgency which shall impose the soviet principle on industry as a whole?

The dense Mr. Boggs—You said it!—Judge.

Birth of Shakespeare.

One of the Owen county teachers tells of the following which she found in a written biography of Shakespeare handed in by one of her eighth-grade pupils:

"Shakespeare's schooling was the limit and it is not known when he was born, but it is thought that it was probably some time in the early part of his life."

One of the first-grade class was reading the story of Prince Cherry. When she came to the words "For what is there in life for a man that is bad?" she read them "For what is there in life for a man who is bald."—Indianapolis News.

The Core of the Afternoon.

Little Marjorie, who is three, told her mother the other evening that while the mother was uptown shopping in the afternoon the little girl had been taken by a servant to call on her father in the latter's office.

"What time did you go?" asked the mother.

"Oh, in the core of the afternoon," replied the little girl.

"Mother doesn't understand what you mean by the 'core' of the afternoon." It was explained to Marjorie.

"Why, I mean the middle," she said simply, as if wondering at the ignorance of grown folks.

EARLY DAYS OF NEW YORK

Fabulous Prices Were Not Always
Paid for Land in the Big Eastern Metropolis.

The Fifth avenue site of the famous Vanderbilt houses—those of William K. Sr., and Mrs. William K. Jr., at Fifty-second street—was once occupied by an iceman, who gathered his ice from a pond on the opposite side of the street.

In those days Fifth avenue above Forty-second street was almost a wilderness and the beautiful thoroughfare of today was nothing but a mere country lane. Not a few of the old Knickerbockers who lived down on the avenue near Washington square and farther south, in quiet brick houses, had country seats on the avenue between Forty-second street and Sixtieth street.

Thomas Buchanan was a man of affairs in New York back in 1807, but today one never hears of the Buchanan family in society. True, some of Thomas Buchanan's descendants are still to be encountered in the smart set, but they have married and intermarried to such an extent that the family name, Buchanan, has almost passed from view.

Shortly before the War of 1812 "Tom" Buchanan bought 50 acres of land from the city for $7,537. This 50-acre tract extended from Forty-fifth street to Forty-eighth street on the east side of what is now Fifth avenue.

The Buchanans were widely known in society of those early days and two of Tom's daughters, Almira and Margaret, married Goetts. The marriage of the two Goetts sons and the Buchanan daughters united two great fortunes (great for those modest days when the high cost of living was unknown), and the large real estate holdings of the present members of the Goetts family can be traced back to that Buchanan purchase of the dim, misty past.

It is said Tom Buchanan's original tract of land—that on the east side of Fifth avenue, extending from Forty-fifth to Forty-eighth street—was appraised recently at more than $20,000,000.

And to think Tom Buchanan paid a paltry $7,000 for that land!—Dolly Madison in the New York Mail.

Many Tyrants.

He was a high school pupil and was imbibing many bits of philosophy. At home he watched the women folk and the ways they devised for doing as they pleased and for getting every other person to do as they wished them to do. And from these he drew conclusions which he later voiced.

"Times have changed since my history was written," he told his father one night. "Then the tyrants were the men, who used to stamp around and kill and frighten people into submission. Today the tyrants have dropped those weapons and use much more subtle ones—tears. I think a woman who cries in order to get her own way is a bigger tyrant than ever these fellows of long ago were."

Anyway, it set father to work thinking.—Indianapolis News.

Thanked for Cranking.

Some time ago I went with a friend to see an acquaintance at a hospital, and as we were leaving my friend stopped in the corridor to exchange a few words with a doctor. I walked outside, where a long line of cars was parked about the building, intending to crank my friend's Ford. I had some trouble starting it, and while I was cranking some one climbed into the car, but, thinking it was my companion, I did not even look up. Imagine my surprise when the motor began to whirl and the car backed off smoothly. I looked up into the smiling face of a perfect stranger.

"Thank you," he said, bowing. I had cranked the wrong car.—New York Times.

Comparative Poverty.

"I don't suppose there ever was a human being who didn't dream of being rich some day," remarked Mr. Gadspar.

"I don't agree with you," said Mr. Dulwaite. "Take my case for instance."

"What? You?"

"Exactly. In my fondest dreams I have never imagined myself possessing more than a million dollars."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Canada's Water Power.

An important feature of the water powers of Canada is their fortunate situation with respect to existing commercial centers. Within economic transmission range of nearly every important city from the Atlantic to the Pacific, except those in the central western prairies, there are clustered water power sites which will meet the probable demands for hydro power for generations.

Expert Witness.

"You swear that this man is no chicken stealer?" demanded the judge. "Yessur," replied Rastus Rashley.

"Da's what Ah said, suh."

"What do you know about the facts in this case?"

"Ah isn't s'posed to know nuffin' 'bout de facts in de case, suh. Ah is an expert witness foh de defense."

—New York Evening Post.

Unreasonable Complaint.

"I don't see why Grubb is always complaining of his cold house."

"Why not?"

"I understand his wife makes it hot enough for him when he is home."

CREDIT is the Basis of Our Financial Structure

The amount of actual money that changes hands in the United States is negligible in proportion to the volume of business transacted, and compared with business methods in foreign countries. This, unquestionably, is one thing which has increased the prosperity of this country and brought it to the commanding position it now holds in the world's affairs.

To the young business man or farmer, nothing is more necessary than the establishment of his credit with a strong, progressive bank, which can help him when he needs it. Consistent, systematic saving will do more to establish that credit than any other one thing.

A credit standing with the CENTRAL is a valuable asset to any man.

Seasonable Good Things.

From this collection should be found a few which will be welcome on the winter table:

Steamed Suet Pudding.

Chop one-half cupful of suet fine, cut fine one-fourth cupful of raisins, add one-fourth cupful of currants and sprinkle the suet and fruit with flour. Mix thoroughly half a cupful of molasses and one-half cupful of sour milk, then add the fruit and suet. Sift one cupful of flour with half a teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, beat all together until well mixed and steam in buttered molds three hours. Serve hot with a hard sauce.

Escalloped Corn.

Take one can of corn, add a beaten egg and half a cupful of milk, one tablespoonful of butter, one-fourth cupful of bread crumbs, one-half cupful of milk, a dash of salt and one-fourth of a chopped pepper. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven.

Pear Salad.

Drain and chill canned pears. Place a half of a pear on a lettuce leaf; in the cavity where the core was removed place a small ball of highly seasoned cream cheese. Serve with whipped cream dressing, a bit of lemon juice, a dash of salt and cayenne and a teaspoonful of boiled dressing added to whipped cream.

Red Apple Salad.

Wash, core and pare uniform apples. Make a syrup of two cupfuls of sugar, a half cupful of water and a few cinnamon candies to color the juice. When the syrup boils add apples and cook until tender but unbroken. Remove the apples and chill. Place each on lettuce and fill the apples with finely minced celery. Serve with whipped cream and garnish with nuts.

Cherry Sponge.

Soften a tablespoonful of gelatin in four tablespoonfuls of water, then dissolve in a cupful of boiling water. Add one-fourth cupful of lemon and orange juice, one-half cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of cherry juice. Stir and mix well, and when cool beat well and add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Place in wet molds and serve unmolded, garnished with cherries and whipped cream.

Celery hearts stuffed with well seasoned cream cheese and arranged on a pretty dish, makes a most appetizing dish for a relish.

Making Dry Barrels Water-Tight

The usual method of swelling leaking casks by pouring water into them and renewing as fast as it runs out, until the leaks close, is tedious and slow. Stuff the cask with straw and place a large stone on the top. Saturate with water and the straw will retain enough moisture to swell the wood after the water has escaped.

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE

Small Town People Had a Great Idea, but It Was Disappointing to the "Drummer."

A commercial traveler arrived for the first time at a small country town one evening. Early next morning he was awakened by a great blowing of whistles, steam sirens, buzzers, etc.

Rejoicing in the thought of doing a lot of business, he asked the hotel proprietor later on:

"This is quite a manufacturing town, isn't it?"

"Oh, yes; we're pretty busy," was the proud reply.

"What kind of factories have you?"

"Well"—this time more slowly—"flour principally."

"Only flour?"

"Yes, that's all as yet. But our flour mill's a good one."

"But I heard at least a dozen whistles going this morning."

"You did," agreed the proprietor, dropping his voice, confidentially, "but they are all at the flour mill. You see, we got the whistles we should want for the factories we are going to have, and put them in to make the town sound more lively. Quite 'entified,' ain't it?"

—London Answers.

AND IT WASN'T HER HUBBY

Waiting Wife Forced to Realize She Was a Bit Hasty in Her Sharp Rebuke.

My husband was in the habit of attending lodge once every two weeks on Saturday night, and would stay until quite late. On such occasions I would lock all the doors but one, which was in an inclosed porch, and take my little girl and go upstairs to bed feeling quite safe. My husband understood this and would come in without disturbing me.

On one of these nights I was awakened by a pounding on the door which was locked. Thinking it was my husband, I paid no attention, but the pounding continued.

Finally, quite disgusted, thinking he should know enough to come in at the other door, I raised the window and boomed down: "Why in Sam Hill don't you go around to the other door?"

A strange voice spoke: "I have a telegram for you."

I had to go down and face him, but fortunately for me there was a mistake in the delivery; but that made it no less embarrassing.—Chicago Tribune.

Gave Daddy Away.

Mr. Daniels, the minister, was being entertained at dinner. Little Ralph was allowed to be present.

"Do you always say your prayers at night, my little man?" asked the guest.

"Yes, sir," was the boy's prompt reply, "and mother does, too."

"That's right. And your father says his, too, doesn't he?"

"No, sir," said Ralph, "he don't have to say any prayers."

"Why, what do you mean?" asked the minister.

"He don't have to," repeated the child, "because he never gets home till it's broad daylight, and then what is there to pray about?"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Search.

We saw Diogenes the other day with his lantern.

"Still looking for an honest man?" we asked. He shook his head mournfully.

"No; I gave that up long ago. I wish I'd stuck to it. It wasn't half so hopeless as what I'm doing now."

He certainly did look despondent, and our heart went out to him.

"What are you looking for now, then?" we asked.

He sighed.

"I'm looking for a congressman who made out his income tax without anybody's help."—Life.

What He Needed.

Mr. Greenby decided to grow vegetables, and straightway paid a visit to the nearest store to buy the necessary seed.

The salesman showed him samples of the various kinds of potatoes as a start off, but Mr. Greenby could find none to suit.

"I am afraid these will not do," he remarked. Then in a confidential whisper, he added: "You see, I have only two teeth in my head, and unfortunately they are not opposite one another. Haven't you any mashed potato seed?"—Pearson's Weekly.

Both Overestimated.

"The roses of pleasure," didactically began Professor Pate, "seldom last long enough to adorn the brow of him who plucks them."

"Yes," replied J. Fuller Gloom, "and those who have attempted to rest on their laurels tell me they make a very poor bed."—Kansas City Star.

No Discussion.

"I don't hear a word of discussion about the film," remarked the house manager. "The people seem to be departing in utter silence."

"Well, it was a story about an abused wife, and that's a good theme for married couples to keep away from."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Served Him Right.

"Have you 'Love's Young Dream'?" asked the fair shopper.

"No, ma'am," replied the impudent clerk. "But how about 'Kissing me in the Moonlight'?"

"Impossible. I could still see your face."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

SUMMONED LIONS TO RESCUE

Quick Wit of Woman Traveler in Wilds of Africa Saved Herself and Her Driver.

With only a hunchback Hottentot driver for company, I was traveling along the White Flag and Paradise trails through the Transvaal before the Boer war, writes Mrs. Halden in the Wide World Magazine, when one morning we drew near a big Kafir "stad" and outspanned for breakfast.

Scarcely was our meal over when several old men who had recognized me at a distance came to consult me about an outbreak of skin disease. I recommended that they bathe in the hot springs, and eat milk and vegetables instead of meat, and move the stad to a higher spot in the hills. They then asked me to come and live with them as a doctor. I reasoned with them for a time, but when at last they threatened me I ordered my driver to inspan while I covered the leader with my rifle. Thus we got safely away.

My driver demurred and almost mutinied when, after four hours' unbroken journey, I insisted that we camp at a big water tree; but he dared not disobey me, and we rested there about an hour. I was thinking of inspanning when six buck Kafirs appeared, coming at a run over the hill. Although such an occurrence was not unusual, something warned me that this was not a friendly visit.

Remembering that the bush near the water tree was the home of numerous lions, I ran to a large rock, which was hollowed out like a basin, and, bending over the hollow, I gave the lioness a warning cry.

The nearer Kafirs now were only some two hundred yards away, and behind them others were coming over the hill. They laughed at my feeble trick as they ran down the slope, for it was the wrong season. But suddenly from the bush, east, west and south, there rose a wild tumult of answering calls. "Not waiting to see what happened, I fled to the cart. Never did I cover ground so quickly, and never shall I remember how I scrambled in. The driver had the mules ready, and we rushed away at top speed to the north."

In spite of the jolting of the cart, I watched the trail behind us and saw that the nearer Kafirs had turned back at the first lion call and must have run right into the animals. We heard the uproar of their onslaught above the din of the mules' feet and the cart.

Returning later by the same route, we passed the big water tree and came upon a few scattered bones that were the remains of the six Kafirs.

Brazil's Anniversary.

The recent celebration of the anniversary of Brazilian independence brings to mind several interesting facts concerning this growing nation. Brazil, with the exception of Cuba, is the youngest of the Latin-American republics. Unlike Cuba, however, Brazil enjoyed independence long before the change of government came. Again, most unlike its sister republics of Spanish America, Brazil effected the radical change without bloodshed. Dom Pedro was a wise, as well as a lovable, monarch; when he saw that the majority opinion favored a republican form of administration, he gracefully abdicated and retired from public life. If only certain European monarchs had possessed similar foresight and common sense but a few years ago!

Calling a Halt.

"We attended the camp meeting, and have had company twice in the last six weeks," severely said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge to his wife. "Then there was the eclipse of the moon tuther night, and a sick horse day before yesterday. An agent stopped yur and told us funny stories a spell ago, and I took the whole family over to the lynching at Rocky Comfort. A month ago the presiding elder stayed all night and walked in his sleep and got dog bit. Some feller took a shot at me one day last week, and our oldest girl got married a while back. I reckon we won't go to 'Squire Tutter's funeral tomorrow. We've been living too fast, and have just nuchly got to slow down."—Kansas City Star.

"Her Dearest Friend."

Miss Sower—Yes, Emily Elder is married at last. The poor thing was over thirty and not at all good-looking. She has no money, and never had an offer before, so she snapped up the first man that came along.

Mrs. Chatter—Are you sure she never had an offer before?

Miss Sower—Of course I am. Who should know if I don't? Why, I'm her dearest friend!—London Answers.

Both Suffering.

"My boy," said Mr. Grimbolt to his only son, "you've been a member of the firm for three months, now."

"So I have, dad. And I must confess that it is getting to be a sort of endurance test for me."

"Emph! Don't flatter yourself, my boy. I'm giving a pretty fair exhibition of endurance myself."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

An Ultimatum.

"I fear that I played an unwilling eavesdropper while one of life's little dramas was being enacted."

"What happened?"

"Just as I was passing a motorcar, drawn up to the curb, I overheard a young man say to a young woman, 'Dorothy, you must choose between your building and me.'"

Record-Breaking Pension Payment; Smallest Number of Pensioners

A record-breaking sum in pensions was paid by the federal government during the last fiscal year despite the fact that the number of pensioners was the smallest of any year since 1890.

This was revealed by the annual report of the commissioner of pensions, who said that $222,129,292.70 was paid to 624,427 persons during the year as compared with $179,835,328.75 to 646,895 pensioners the year before. The largest number of persons ever on the pension roll was 999,446, in 1902, and they received a total of $137,502,267.99.

Total pensions paid to date on account of the Civil war, the commissioner said, was $5,299,858,509.39, and the total for all wars reached $5,617,520,402.30 including $65,211,665.71 on account of the Spanish-American war.

Last year 3,747 pensioners were scattered through sixty-three foreign countries, including one on the island of St. Helena. They received a total of $1,188,188.45.

The net reduction in the pension roll during the year was 22,468, the number of names removed being 32,149 and the number added 9,681.

Ohio led the states with the largest roll, there being 60,902 pensioners drawing $21,582,330.04. Pennsylvania was second with 59,072 pensioners drawing $20,630,813.44; New York third with 53,736, receiving $19,631,090.72; Illinois fourth with 43,976, receiving $15,965,335.52, and Indiana fifth with 37,647, receiving $13,703,084.94.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

When two fall out, the third wins.—General Proverb.

False in one thing, false in all.—Leont Maxim.

To invent false charges is never difficult.

A goodly apple rotten at the heart.

O what a goodly outside falsehood hath.

—Shakespeare.

Every clown can find fault, though it would puzzle him to do better.—German Proverb.

It is with feelings as with waters: The shallow murmur, but the deep are dumb.—Raleigh.

UNGUARDED GATES

Wide open and unguarded stand our gates, Names of the four winds, North, South, East and West;

Portals that lead to an enchanted land Of cities, forests, fields of living gold, Vast prairies, lordly summits touched with snow.

Majestic rivers sweeping proudly past The Arab's date palm and the Norseman's pine—

A realm wherein are fruits of every zone, Aids of all climes, for, lo! throughout the year

The red rose blossoms somewhere—a rich land, A later Eden planted in the wilds,

With not an inch of earth within its bound But if a slave's foot press it sets him free.

Here it is written, Toll shall have its wage, And Honor honor, and the humblest man Stand level with the highest in the law.

Of such a land have men in dungeons dreamed, And with the vision brightening in their eyes

Gone smiling to the faggot and the sword, Wide open and unguarded stand our gates,

And through them presses a wild motley throng—

Men from the Volga and the Tartar steppes, Featureless figures of the Hoang-Ho,

Malayan, Scythian, Teuton, Kelt and Slav, Plying the old world's poverty and scorn;

These bringing with them unknown gods and rites— Those, tiger passions, here to stretch their claws.

In street and alley what strange tongues are loud Accents of menace alien to our air,

Voices that once the Tower of Babel knew!

O Liberty, white goddess! is it well To leave the gates unguarded? On thy breast

Fold sorrow's children, soothe the hurts of fate, Lift the downtrodden, but with hand of steel

Stay those who to thy sacred portals come To waste the gifts of freedom. Have a care

Lest from thy brow the clustered stars be torn, And trampled in the dust. For so of old

The thronging Goth and Vandal trampled Rome, And where the temples of the Caesars stood

The lean wolf unmolested made her lair. —Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Politeness Well Defined By Three Eminent Persons

Many definitions of politeness have been given by learned and able men and are to be found scattered through literature. Here are three short ones, each from an eminent man: Sidney Smith says that "politeness is good nature regulated by good sense." Macaulay writes: "Politeness has been well defined as benevolence in small things." He did not originate this definition, but he gives it his approval.

Chesterfield claims that politeness "simply consists in treating others just as you love to be treated yourself." As to the practice of politeness, the philosopher, Bacon, wrote: "The wise are polite all the world over; fools are polite only at home."

Daily Thought

Every heart that has beat strong and cheerfully has left a hopeful influence behind it in the world, and bettered the tradition of mankind."

First M. D. Degree

The first degree of doctor of medicine was conferred by the college at Asti, Italy, in 1323.

Gorilla Families Live in Nest Homes Built High in Trees of Tropical Forests

Gorillas live in family groups—husband, wife and one or two babies. The mother carries her offspring on her hip, just as does the native African woman.

Food is always plentiful, consisting of fruit and nuts supplied bounteously by the tropical forest. Home is a sort of nest built in a tree, a few branches being bent together so as to form a platform, over which leafy twigs are distributed.

It is alleged that the father of the family spends the night customarily at the foot of the tree, against which he places his back while keeping guard against possible attack by enemies. In a stand-up fight there is only one foe that he has reason to fear, and that is the leopard.

The males often fight each other with dire ferocity, the prize of combat being usually a lady gorilla, who views the strife with flattered interest, cheerfully accepting the victor's claim of ownership.

JUST TO LAUGH

Hubby, Come Across.

Wife—Before we were married you said that I would always look the same to you as the years rolled away!

Husband—Yes, and I meant it. Wife—Oh, I believe it. I haven't had a new hat or gown since the ceremony.

Ignorance Enlightened.

He—It was easy to tell that the entertainer was English; he didn't sound like his when he sang.

She—That shows how little you know about music; the scale doesn't run above G.

He Has His Own Uplift.

"Does your husband offer any encouragement to you in your uplift work?"

"None, except every time I mention it he goes up in the air."

Thankful for Something.

"There's one thing I'm glad of anyhow," said the patriarch.

"What's that, father?" asked the prodigal son.

"You didn't get into politics and make your wastefulness so conspicuous as to call for a congressional investigation."

Of Course Not.

"It's queer how proud some parents are of a pestiferous brat."

"Oh, I don't know. Anyhow, you wouldn't want the kid to go through life utterly friendless."

Very Highly Accomplished.

"What about that niece of yours who is just back from college?"

"She kin do nothing in the most finished way I ever had the pleasure of witnessing," responded old Uncle Heck.

Something Fine.

"The lady candidates have cast their hats into the ring."

"What do the lady voters say to that?"

"They are busy studying the display of millinery."
